

HOW TO USE:

The Campaign Creator Deck can be used in multiple ways. Shuffle and draw cards, placing them beside one another, to create a string of events that will guide you when writing and planning for your next campaign.

CARD TYPES:

Q

Quests: These cards make up the main beats of the campaign. Draw them and place them in a line above 'Themes'.

I

Interludes: These can be drawn and placed between 'Quest' cards. They depict areas of respite, or lesser importance to the campaign narrative.

T

Themes: These cards are drawn and placed below 'Quest' cards, attaching a single theme to the overall campaign, or many themes to several 'Quests'.

Split into the three coloured decks and draw, or draw from all of the cards at random!

ADDITIONAL TOOLS:

D6

D6 PROMPTS:
After drawing from your deck, roll a handful of six-sided dice and place them on your cards. These can determine the difficulty level of a 'Quest', or provide unique words and ideas associated with the drawn 'Interludes' and 'Themes'. These words can be used as further prompts when writing the campaign narrative.

COIN

FLIP A COIN:
Another way to gain more depth from the cards drawn is to flip coins and place in the top corners of the 'Quest' cards. A 'Heads' will represent a 'Quest' being embarked upon for personal reasons, whereas a 'Tails' represents a job, or contract, of some kind. A 'Quest' may start out as a job, but become personal, or a personal 'Quest' may lead to employment.

These tools are optional, and the coins can be changed to represent anything you wish!

SLAY —THE— BEAST

STORY CARDS:

THE '8' ELEMENTS OF A QUEST:

1. Enemies

2. Allies

3. Setting

4. Lore

5. Problems

6. Solutions

7. Secrets

8. Objectives

When planning your new campaign, lay out the 'Story' cards beside one another, next to your campaign layout. For each 'Quest' card, make notes on the eight elements listed on the story cards (or above). By including these eight elements into each 'Quest', the experience will become much more rich and tangible.

For a more advanced use of the 'Story' cards, insert them between 'Quest' and 'Interlude' cards as prompts for when those 'Story' elements may arise in the campaign. The 'Enemies' element, for example, may represent the reveal of the campaign's main antagonist.

The eight elements can also be used to plan the overall arc of your new campaign.

CAMPAIGN DECK

LAYOUT EXAMPLE:

Once you have drawn and placed your cards, try to think how adjacent cards can flow together and affect one another. The titles of the cards can be used as inspiration for campaign events, and do not have to be taken literally.
